

Topic selection
Ash Dicus

For my website I was thinking of making a website for a sandwich shop like Subway/Firehouse Subs. The sites name will be "Sub Stop". The data that will be stored will be different sandwiches, with their own toppings, calories, names, etc. Users could also make their own sandwich when ordering rather than picking one of the default options. The site would also remember logged in account's previous orders.

Page names:

1. Home
2. Menu
3. Where we source our ingredients
4. About us
5. Locations